School and Community

Cascade Christian Schools (CCS), founded in 1992, is a private Christian school system in Washington's Pierce County. The network of schools across five different campuses serves nearly 1,900 students, from 6 weeks old to the 12th grade (almost 400 high school students). The high school campus of Cascade Christian Schools is located in Puyallup, Washington, about 45 minutes south of Seattle.

Serving the World

When asked the question, "What is the most unique and significant thing we do at Cascade Christian High School?" our students often answer, "I-Term."

The objective of the CCS IMPACT Term (I-Term) is to enhance student learning by providing additional spiritual, personal, academic, and servant leadership experiences outside the traditional classroom in conjunction with the CCS curricular program. I-Term is a profound way that students live out the CCS 3 R's of Respect, Responsibility, and Relationship.

Through this unique secondary-level experience, CCS students serve others locally, nationally, and internationally.
