School and Community

Cascade Christian Schools (CCS), founded in 1992, is a private Christian school system in Washington's Pierce County. The network of schools across five different campuses serves more than 1,300 students, from 6 weeks old to the 12th grade (around 250 high school students). The high school campus of Cascade Christian Schools is located in Puyallup, Washington, about 45 minutes south of Seattle.

Serving the World

When asked the question "What is the most unique and significant thing we do at Cascade Christian High School?" our students often answer, "I-Term."

The purpose of the CCHS IMPACT Term (I-Term) is to enhance student learning by providing additional spiritual, academic, personal, and leadership experiences outside the traditional classroom. I-Term is a profound way that students live out the three R's of Respect, Responsibility, and Relationship.

Students serve others locally and abroad. Teams each share their blogs and photos, available at www.cascadechristian.org/i-term.
